a second floor transformation

The main objective of the second floor renovation was to maximize functionality and storage, making it a harmonious living space for the family. The new design included creating individual ensuites for each bedroom. Additionally, they enhanced the storage options in each bedroom, enabling the homeowners to keep their personal spaces clutter-free.

Initially, the homeowners had wanted to keep the fourth bedroom. However, they made the wise decision to reduce the number of bedrooms from four to three, ensuring that each space would be more functional, spacious, and accommodating. This adjustment was essential, as both of the adult children work from home, requiring dedicated workspaces within the house.

To bring a sense of openness and brightness to the second floor, the team at K-Wood Kitchens and Bath undertook structural changes as well. They enlarged the window in the master ensuite to allow more natural light to flood the space. Furthermore, a skylight was installed in the primary bedroom, further enhancing the illumination throughout the room. These thoughtful changes not only made the rooms more welcoming but also reduced the need for artificial lighting during the day, contributing to energy efficiency.

As a final touch of luxury functionality, the homeowners were eager to have a spacious walk-in closet that would provide ample storage and a touch of luxury to their everyday lives. This closet not only enhanced the master bedroom's aesthetics but also added immense functionality to the room. After the renovation was complete, the second floor offers functional, tailor-made areas that cater to the homeowners unique needs perfectly. - K-Wood Kitchens and Bath, www.kwoodkitchens.com
